Attention: Mr. David Chang

Dear Mr. Chang,

For some months the world has been facing the serious problem of scarcity of raw materials which has continued to cause a chain of inconveniences everywhere and in all the consequent phases and processes that lead to the production of finished products. This problem particularly hit the market for technological products, causing in most industries a heavy slowdown in production and significant price increases for all raw materials and components, even on existing orders.

Despite this, in 2021 AT Broadcast did its best not to disappoint its customers, guaranteeing proper delivery time, not increasing yet its price lists and thus personally covering the costs and all the inconvenience caused by this problem instead of its customers.

Unfortunately, as component costs have also continued to rise over the past few months and still are growing, we are now forced to increase a bit the price list of our core products by around 5-10% from January 1st 2022.

Hoping that we will not have to make any further price increases during next year and that the cost of raw materials and components will finally stabilize, we invite you to contact our sales department for updated quotations of our products.

By remaining at your complete disposal and still believing that our priority is to satisfy you in the best possible way, we wish you to spend the next holidays happily and that the New Year will be a source of prosperity and joy for you.

Yours faithfully,

Mak S K
General Manager
